The 1984 Venice International Anarchist Gathering is convened by the Libertarian Studies Centre of Milan (Centro Studi Libertari) with the sponsorship of other organisations.

The Milan Libertarian Studies Centre is a well established anarchist collective which has organized over the past few years a very interesting programme of seminars, lectures, and theoretical meetings. It has been a tribune for libertarian sociologists, psychoanalysts, ecologists, historians, etc. and has brought together thinkers and experts who are interested in meeting the demands of our times at a high level of ideological and theoretical development.

The Venice gathering will not be a congress, in the sense that decisions affecting the organization and policies of the international anarchist movement will not be proposed and made. It will be an unique opportunity to create a climate of dialogue and friendship among comrades of different tendencies. Space will be allowed for hard thinking but there will be music and fun too.

Those comrades who want to find out more about this event and get some basic information regarding transport, accomodation, etc. can attend an open meeting to be held at Centro Iberico (439 - 441, Harrow Road, London) on July 14 at 6.30 pm.
